Front stretch pocket. Back file pocket.
The Laptop Armor Stretch Bag is compact, but can also store a surprising amount of extra gear. The front pocket is neoprene on the outside and plastic on the inside (laptop side). The neoprene allows it to stretch to accommodate whatever accessories you put in it, while the plastic (and padding) ensures that they don't touch your laptop. A back file pocket can hold files or magazines.

hard cases in disguise.

Hard frame. Soft padding.
The key to Laptop Armor's protective capability is the combination of a rigid ABS frame and a padded foam interior. The patented Corner Protection System surrounds the edges of your laptop with multiple layers of foam, insulating it from the outer frame of the laptop compartment. In the event of a fall, the ABS frame absorbs most of the impact, while Foam Spacers cushion your laptop and keep its fragile corners away from the collision.

laptop armor expandable bag

One bag. Two sizes.
You never know when you'll need extra room to carry more, but you also don't want to carry a bigger bag than you have to. The Laptop Armor Expandable Bag is like having two bags in one. Simply unzip the center zipper and the accessories compartment doubles in size.

Ergonomic design lightens your load.
Special care was taken to make the Expandable Bag comfortable to carry. The synthetic leather handle is positioned so your arm rests comfortably against your body. This ensures that you're not off-balance, and makes heavy loads feel lighter. A detachable, padded shoulder strap is also included.
